Winner

Sia Mai 'Feltflaske' flask {right} Product of the Year judge Rina Bernabei has this hand-blown glass flask (far right, pictured with matching serving bowl) pegged as a modern classic and we'd have to agree. The two-piece set, inspired by the old-school canteen flask, consists of an elegant water glass and a carafe held together using an elastic band. The result is elegant, beautifully crafted and, above all, useful. $165, Elevate Design, 0413 637 385, elevatedesign.com.au.

FINALISTS

Anne Black 'Ruth M' screen-printed porcelain {top} The joyful mix of clean lines and delicate decoration lends this Danish design its appeal. Tile plates, $42.45 each, Elevate Design, 0413 637 385, elevatedesign.com.au.
Sharon Muir trinket boxes and bird sculptures {above} These vessels, featuring patterns found on vintage ceramics, are unashamedly pretty. Birds, $47 each, large trinket boxes, $125 each, Sharon Muir, sharonmuir.com.au.
Attia measuring spoons {right} Why use plastic when you can have timber kitchen tools as beautiful as these? $33/4-piece set, Attia, 0422 818 850, attia.com.au.

"I'd have this FLASK ON MY DESK. IT HAS A NICE FEEL AND IS GOOD TO HOLD" ~ MARK TUCKEY
